the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's health and social care. The strategy is based on the following principles: older people should be able to live independently and actively in the community; older people should be able to access the services they need; and older people should be able to participate in decisions about their care and services.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives for the future of older people's health and social care. These include: to improve the health and well-being of older people; to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; to ensure that older people are able to participate in decisions about their care and services; and to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively in the community.

The strategy is a key document for the future of older people's health and social care in the UK. ## Class Will

I, Robert Matthys, in my reluctant state of mind, will my ability to mingle with girls to Delbert Biggs, and my pleasing personality to my sister, Theresa.

I, Judith Hacker, in my joyous state of mind, will my ability to keep my locker clean and respectable to my brother, Howard, and my ability to pass algebra to Sally Berg.

I, Michael Baranko, in my conceited state of mind, will my good looks to John Arndt, my ability to make friends to my brother, Emil, and my ability to do nothing yet graduate to Bill Webber.

I, Donald Johnson, in my best state of mind, will my love for teachers and my intelligence to Dennis Olds and all his heirs, and my good looks to Alvin Gorski.

I, Sherry Mae Gebert, in my studious state of mind, will my long pony tail (that's real) to Carol Neuliep.

I, Laurel Plisky, in my perplex state of mind, will my shorthand ability to Sue Lesko, and my ability to keep secrets to Linda Shiyen.

I, Kenneth Fraley, in my illustrious state of mind, will my ability in Mr. McCaron's classes to Tim Walsworth, and my curly hair to Al Kiefer.

I, Bert Pearson, in my weak state of mind, will my ability to read incorrectly all my assignments to Al Kiefer.

I, Alice Fiscus, in my sound state of mind, will my place in the alto section to Sally Dust, and my shyness to anyone who wants it.

I, James Matthys, in my slow state of mind, will my dating ability to Fred Curren, and my ability to shoot baskets to Ken Platt.

I, Phyllis Peek, in my normal state of mind, will my cheerleading ability to Fred Curren, and my newly decorated locker to Christine Nielsen.

I, Paul Pearson, in my apathetic state of mind, will my sandals, black turtle-neck sweater, and bongo drums to Ronnie Popp, and my ability to fill out auto accident reports to Vicky Seigh.

I, Patricia Laurencell, in my sensible state of mind, will my driving ability to Mike Platt, and my ability to get along with Mr. Kennedy to Donald Nielsen.

I, John Tofte, in my sympathetic state of mind, will my ability not to go hitless during baseball season to Ken Platt.

I, Jane Hansford, in my undetermined state of mind, will my ability to get along with Mr. Adnson to Carol Nueliep.

I, Karen Lindstedt, in my untouchable state of mind, will my dancing ability to Linda Shiyen and my ability to skip lunch and still survive to Vicky Seigh.

We the Class of '60, do hereby will all our shattered minds and undying enthusiasm to all forthcoming classes.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

"Plane 207 leaving runway 8." This was the call for the Class of 1961's excursion around the world to find the Seniors.

Our first stop was Hawaii. Guess who we saw? In the midst of a group of Hawaiian girls stood Jim Matthys. As we approach the group we noticed that they were teaching him to do the Hula with a Hula Hoop. We spent the night there and by morning we were all doing the hula. So we said a-lo-ha and with the hoops he gave us hulaed on our way. Due to bad weather, we landed at Rose Polly Tech. As we stepped out of the rain and wind we saw Sherry Gebert decorating lockers. She explained that she was employed at Plisky's Interior Locker Decorating Agency. We congratulated her and she gave us each a traveling book and on we went. Feeling hungry we guided our books down towards the Glass House. We went in and saw a lady in a rather snug, strapless, black, sequin dress. We looked closer and on her hat was a sign in big letters reading CHIEF CUSTODIAN OF THE N. D. D. J. (National Disposal of Dirty Junk). We looked closer and saw that it was Judy Hacker. After paying our bill for our frog leg dinner and having said good-bye to Judy, we hopped off.

New York next stop! Hearing a faint tinkle, we stopped to investigate. As we stepped into the Metropolitan Opera House we heard Bob Matthys singing in a high operatic voice "Madame Butterfly." We looked around and found the owner who turned out to be Jane Hansford. After talking to Jane for awhile, we decided to be on our way. Bob gave us each some butterfly wings and once again the class of 61 departed. Our next stop was the roof of Buckingham Palace and there we saw the Palace Guards. One of the guards turned out to be Paul Pearson. We asked Paul the way to Greece, but he was laughing so hard that we couldn't understand him so we left. We caught the nearest train and went to Greece. While traveling the train suddenly came to a stop and who should we see walking in the middle of the tracks, but a hobo. He was wearing an old shaggy coat and patched pants. As we opened the window we could see it was Mike Baranko. Knowing that there are 50 ties in one mile of track Mike wanted to see how many miles he could travel in one day.

Greece, at last! We heard loud cheering and shouting at the Colosseum. Ken Fraley was receiving an award for running the 30-mile dash in 1 minute. After a brief conversation with Ken, we traveled away on our pogo sticks. We stopped off at India and went to the Foreign Relations Building. The first thing we noticed was a dignified and serious looking young man. Much to our surprise he turned out to be Don Johnson. We asked what he was doing here and he answered, "I'm ambassador to India." After spending the night there and having had a tour by Don, we borrowed some magic carpets and flew on. We went on to Africa and floated down. There we visited Bert Pearson, King of the Pygmies. We said hello but since he was busy getting supper we went on. We arrived back in the states where we came upon Nielsenville, Kentucky. We saw Patti and Phyllis hanging out diapers. We went over to talk to them and to meet their families. Wishing them all the luck in the world, we left for Washington. There we visited the President's cabinet. We saw John Tofte head of the Department of Agriculture and Karen Linstedt beside him. Seeing they were in an important conference we left for Vermont. There we saw Laurel Plisky standing on a street corner playing her organ grinder while her pet monkey danced a jig. We tossed her a quarter and headed for home. On our way home, we saw a good old-fashioned American amusement, a circus. Looking closer we saw Alice Fiscus as a tight rope walker. We said "Hi" and seeing that Alice was in the middle of her act decided we better go on. We set our borrowed elephants toward good old J. H. S. We arrived safely and found it just as we left it. We hurried into our thunderbird buses and finally headed for home.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the general population, and the incidence of mental health problems has increased in the prison population.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of prisoners. The Department of Health (2000) has published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners. The Department of Health (2000) has also published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion, and the number of people aged 65 and over has increased from 0.2 billion to 0.4 billion (United Nations 1999).

There are a number of reasons why the ageing of the population is important. First, the ageing of the population has the potential to increase the demand for health and social care services. Second, the ageing of the population has the potential to increase the demand for housing and transport services. Third, the ageing of the population has the potential to increase the demand for education and training services.

There are a number of ways in which the ageing of the population can be managed. First, it is important to ensure that there are enough health and social care services to meet the needs of the ageing population. Second, it is important to ensure that there are enough housing and transport services to meet the needs of the ageing population. Third, it is important to ensure that there are enough education and training services to meet the needs of the ageing population.
